EXECUTIVE SESSION PLANNED BY PROBERS ILLEGAL OIL RUNS

MOST WITNESSES TELL THE LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE BELIEVE RUNS ILLEGAL

By H. C. MARSHALL
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

KILGORE, Oct. 13.—(P)—A statement that if illegal taking of oil was going on in the East Texas field, the major oil companies had a hand in it, was made here today by Gordon Burns, member of the Texas house of representatives.

Burns is a member of the house committee investigating charges that oil is being produced in violation of the Texas conservation and proration laws. Other members are R. M. Wagstaff of Abilene and R. J. Long of Wichita Falls.

The committee began the second day of its formal investigations with a hearing in executive session at the military and railroad commission headquarters near Kilgore.

The field still is under military supervision imposed by Governor R. S. Sterling, although only a few soldiers are in the area.

A previous hearing was held in the city hall and was open to the public. A number of landowners testified relative to what they believed were cases of proration violations. The hearing was continued at military headquarters so as to be more accessible to witnesses.

"I believe that violations of the proration and conservation laws have been reduced to a minimum since the railroad commission got actively into the job of curbing them," Burns said. "This has been largely due to the vigilance of Homer Pierson, chief investigator for the East Texas field, and a larger number of commission employees in the field. Nevertheless, there is no doubt in my mind that if any violations are going on, the major oil companies have a hand in them: The small independent oil companies are by no means the only guilty outfit."

Steve Illegally Runs Made

Witnesses testified yesterday that the opinion was general among some royalty owners that some illegal oil was being produced, that it, in excess of production authorized by the railroad commission.

They based testimony on the burning of waste gas incident to the running of oil for unusual periods.

Pierson was one of several commissioners who went to the military headquarters. While the committee did not announce prior

FOREIGN MISSIONARIES ARE CHARGED WITH SELF-INTEREST IN ANOTHER LAYMAN REPORT

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—(P)—The fourth installment of the report of the appraisal commission of the American's foreign missionary inquiry, expressed the opinion that "the greater number" of missionaries are "of limited outlook and capacity."

The survey of the Far Eastern situation conducted by the inquiry was sponsored by seven Protestant denominations represented in the territory covered by more than 10,000 missionaries.

Today's installment of the report asserts the missionary is prone to see his task a primarily that of promoting his own church organization.

"The trail of self-interest within the organization lies like the trail of the serpent over the missions of Asia within our purview," the report continues.

"Of the thousands of missionaries, the appraisal commission reports, "there are many of conscious power, true saintliness, and a sublime spirit of devotion, men and women in whose presence one feels himself at once exalted and uplifted."

"The number seem to us to be limited in outlay and capacity; and there are not a few whose vision of the inner meaning of

This photo, showing former Mayor James J. Walker in a rather striking pose, was made as the popular "Jimmy" was welcomed back to New York by Tammany leaders John F. Curry (center) and John McCooey, after his arrival from Europe on the liner Europa. A dense welcoming throng was on hand to prove that the ex-Mayor is still the unforgettable man. As the camera clicked on this picture, Walker was saying: "If this is a political death, it's a swell way to die."

PRESIDENT HOOVER RECEIVES GROUP OF BONUS DELEGATES

PETITION PRESENTED ASKING FOR GOVERNMENT ASSISTANCE THIS WINTER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—(P)—President Hoover today received personally delegations from the bonus expeditionary force, after its leader, Hoke Smith, had conferred for more than an hour with one of the president's secretaries.

William Boyd Jr., executive vice-president of the institute, was the witness. Attorney General James V. Allred claimed the institute was the medium through which the alleged agreement on the part of oil companies to monopolize market outlets for crude oil and refined petroleum products was effected.

Boyd testified he received $55,000 per year as executive vice-president and gave figures showing the receipts of the institute since 1928.

Objection was made to the questions concerning the institute's finances by attorneys for all defendants on the ground they were immaterial and irrelevant.

ATHENS, Greece, Oct. 13.—(P)—Samuel Insull, under indictment in Chicago in connection with the collapse of his utilities interests, refused today to surrender his passport to the American consul until he had consulted his lawyer.

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—(P)—Samuel Insull, Sr., and his brother, Martin, today were faced with threatened personal bankruptcy actions as creditors sought to bring to light assets in branches of their bankrupt utility colossus.

Louis F. Jacobson, attorney for creditors of the Insull Utility Investments, Inc., involved in bankruptcy proceedings before Federal Judge Walter Lindley, indicated he likely would seek personal bankruptcy petitions for the Insulls.

Two assistants of State's Attorney John A. Swanson stood by with orders to leave for Washington for a presidential warrant for Samuel Insull, now in Athens, and to proceed to Greece to return him on the warrant. Both Insulls are charged with larceny and embezzlement as result of the burst utility bubble.

Witnesses whose testimony before the Cook county grand jury in the Insull case are scheduled to appear before Chief Justice John Prystaski to give depositions of their testimony to support presidential warrants for the Insulls.

As soon as testimony is sworn to, extradition papers will be sent by air to Springfield for the signature of Acting Governor Fred E. Sterling and then will be forwarded to Washington for signing by President Hoover and Secretary of State Stimson, the prosecutor said.

The warrant for Martin Insull will be mailed to Barrie, Ont., Canada, where he is free on bail pending an extradition hearing. The hearing is set for tomorrow.

ROBERT J. KLEBERG
KING RANCH OWNER
DIES KINGSVILLE

KINGSVILLE, Oct. 11.—(P)—Robert J. Kleberg, 70, cattle breeder, agriculturist and border country graduate of one of the largest cattle ranches in the United States, died yesterday at his home, San Gertrudis ranch, near Kingsville.

His domain embraced more than 1,2000 acres of land, included a entire Texas county and portions of six others, and covered 1,600 square miles.

Funeral rites will be observed at the ranch at 10 a. m. tomorrow and burial will be in the Chambrian plot near Kingsville.

Plans to have cowboys from the ranch form an escort of honor were considered, but the services will be charge of the Masonic lodge.

The body lay in state at the ranch home today. A message of condolence was received from John Garner, Democratic vice presidential nominee.

Kleberg county, in which Kingsville is situated, was named for him. He set aside 45,000 acres of the ranch for its site and an additional 40,000 acres for the towns of Raymonville and Lyford in Willacy county.

Robert J. Kleberg, Jr., was given control of the ranch when his father became ill five years ago. Another son, Richard M. Kleberg is a representative in congress.

The elder Kleberg was a native Texan. The son, Robert J. Kleberg, attorney and veteran of the Mexican war. He was born Dec. 5, 1863, in DeWitt county. He was graduated from the law school of the University of Virginia in 1880 and returned to practice in Texas, first at Cuero, then in Corpus Christi.

Capt. Richard King, then owner of Santa Gertrudis ranch and at that time the largest individual holder of real estate in Texas, came to the young lawyer for advice. When Captain King died in 1886, his widow, Mrs. Henrietta M. King, persuaded Kleberg to abandon legal practice and assume control of the ranch, which then covered 1,000,000 acres. Under Kleberg's management the ranch was expanded until it included more than 1,000,000 acres.

Lacking water for stock, Kleberg bored deep wells which provided an inexhaustible supply of artesian water.

Kleberg possessed natural talent and a love for stock raising. At one time there were more than 150,000 head of cattle and horses on the ranch. He introduced fine stock from the best herds in other states and by cross-breeding considerably improved the market value of his stock.

Soon after taking control of the ranch, Kleberg began promotion of a railroad for the South Gulf coast. The St. Louis, Brownsville & Mexico railroad was organized with Kleberg as president and director. This road never leaves the King ranch for more than 100 miles of its route.

He was among the first to discover that ticks spread fever and cattle and was a strong advocate of the quarantine method of controlling the disease.

Kleberg married Miss Gertrudis King, daughter of Captain King, on June 17, 1886. The two sons and three daughters survive. The daughters are Miss Sarah Spohn Kleberg and Mrs. Tom T. East, Kingsville, and Mrs. John A. Lar-kin, New York.

"We believe we have gotten illegal production of oil in the East Texas field well under control," Person said. "With our large staff of men going through the area of production, it has become very difficult for operators to violate the law."

Luther Swift, another executive employee of the commission, also was at military headquarters. He was enthusiastic over an order of the railroad commission providing for shutting in a well which produced oil illegally until the excess over the allowable had been made up.

Now Orders Received.

Copies of the order have just been received.

"That is just what we have been needing," Swift said. "We have advocated such an order for a long time."

At the first hearing of the committee, during a round table discussion, Swift said that at the time of reorganization of the commission staff in the East Texas field a month ago, he estimated about 10 per cent of the oil being produced in the field was unaccounted for.

It was to investigate continued charges that oil was being produced illegally by some operators, thereby working unfairly against others who abided by the law, that the committee came to the East Texas field.

The committee did not recommend what new legislation, if any, would be recommended. However, Representative Burns sought to show by questioning that existing laws were adequate if properly enforced.

KILLEORE, Oct. 13.—(P)—An executive session was planned today for the hearing before a committee of the Texas legislature investigating the charges that much oil was being produced in the East Texas oil field in violation of state proration and conservation laws.

Rep. R. J. Long of Wichita Falls, presided at the first session yesterday, which began with a session in the morning and a hearing was made executive so testimony would be given more freely.

Most of the witnesses testified that royalty owners believed oil was being run illegally and since this worked hardship on persons who abided by the law, swift action should be taken against violators.

Chairman Long said the committee would not hesitate to issue subpoenas if the people were reluctant to talk. He indicated the committee might call the county attorney of Gregg county and other local officials to tell what they know of any law violations.

"We know there are violations of the proration laws," Long said. "The charges have been made again and again. We intend to do what we can to stop such

A. P. I. Session Ends.

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo., Oct. 13.—(P)—The board of directors of the American Petroleum Institute concluded a two-day session here this morning with discussions of the current problems of the oil industry.

Amos L. Beatty of New York, president of the institute, said the directors had no statement to make concerning its business conference this morning.

Mr. Beatty said yesterday that price improvement and other adjustments in the industry offered optimism.

E. B. Reeser, president of Barnard Corporation, one of the companies increasing prices in the area, said "a crude advance is justified by every rule except basing its price on that of gasoline."

The last company to post an advance yesterday was Phil-Tex Pipeline Co., a Phillips Petroleum subsidiary. The new scale, which brings a $1.12 per barrel top for Oklahoma, is effective Saturday. The upward movement was started by the Sun Oil Company, which posted 10 and 12 cents advances in Texas Monday.

The man of more or less excited talk that circulated through this oil center brought most frequently the opinion that the posting of an advance on the heels of a cut in production was evidence of a desire for co-operation between the producing and purchasing branches of the industry.

A. M. Rowley, managing editor of the Oil and Gas Journal, pointed to the comparative returns to East Texas operators under the present prices and those announced effective next Saturday.

Would Bring Over Million.

The present flat price of 98 cents a barrel brings producers $980 for 1,000 barrels. With East Texas curtailed further by slightly less than 9 per cent, from 375,000 barrels to 335,000 barrels, the 910 barrels allowable for the same number of wells will bring producers $1,018.20, Rowley estimated.

Oklahoma operators, whose allowable was reduced only about three per cent, will benefit still more from the increase of 12 per cent in price posted by Sinclair.

Despite the fact 17,000 barrels was dropped from the Oklahoma allowable, the increase, if general would mean, on a basis of 79,791 barrels produced, $15,574.50 in additional revenue to Oklahoma pocketbooks.

In answer to the objection that the testimony concerning the institute's practices was immediate, Lovett, Looney, assisting the state, asserted it would be developed later that the institute had "silent partners" that aided it in carrying on its work.

Boyd testified that in 1925 John D. Rockefeller, Sr., contributed a fund of $250,000 to be used in petroleum research. Boyd stated the fund was not expended by the institute proper, but under the direction of a separate committee and was used to pay the cost of special research in numerous universities.

A similar contribution for research work was made by the Universal Oil Products Company, Boyd testified.

Boyd explained that money for operation of the Institute was received from membership fees and contributions to a maintenance fund. Contributions for the years from 1927 to the present time, from $284,777 in 1928; $436,515 in 1929; $499,172 in 1930; $201,089 in 1931, and $234,000 to date in 1932, Boyd testified.

TWO MEASURES PASSED BY SPECIAL SESSION TEXAS LEGISLATURE WERE VETOED

AUSTIN, Oct. 12.—(P)—A bill passed by the third extraordinary session of the Texas legislature which would have empowered the state railroad commission to make inventories of gas properties in towns of less than 5,000 population for rate-fixing purposes, had been vetoed by Governor R. S. Sterling today.

He also disapproved a bill designed to exempt farmers from paying chauffeur's license on their trucks.

The gas bill was sponsored by Senator J. J. Lovett of Sherman.

The governor said he disapproved the gas bill because "in my opinion, it would interfere materially with the passage of a general utility bill at the next session of the legislature."

"I am heartily in favor of general utility regulation and feel that all utility companies should be regulated by the state," the governor said. "At this time, gas companies are the only utility companies that are being regulated and further, the clause in this bill that relates to industrial gas would interfere with the right of contract. Many industrial concerns have contracted for their fuel supply and have based their operations upon these contracts."

THE BIRCH TREE.
Out of a jutting rock, wind blown, a birch tree braves the world alone. A crevice in the granite first Captured the seed; a wave immersed that tiny embryo. The sun Warmed it and thus was life begun.

Scant food the passing breezes
give.

And yet that tree contrives to live!

Cruel the clutch of granite gray,
Yet the brave roots from day to day.

Into the great stone deeper creep
A sure hold on life to keep.

Twisted and bent some limbs appear,

But still undaunted year by year
Those roots in cheerless channels

sunk

Courageously support the trunk

And green against the lake and sky,

A birch tree catches every eye!

Man thinks he knows what nature wills,

But much he plants the winter
kills,

While far away from humann care

And on a cliff by storms, swept bare,

Denied the commonest of needs,

A birch tree silently succeeds!

SACRIFICE BY FIRE.

The Carthaginians sacrificed their children to the worship of a calf-headed image, in the belief that it would increase their crops and help them win their wars.

The day of such superstitions has gone. But enlightened America is needlessly destroying some 10,000 lives
and nearly half-a-billion dollars in property values a year, through fire alone.

The difference in the two examples is simply one of motive. There is no difference in the effect—sacrifice that our carelessness and incompetence in handling fire destroys more lives than did the Carthaginians. As a matter of fact, their record is a more excusable one,
in that they were comparatively primitive people,
while we lay claim to wisdom.

All through the ages fire has been both friend and enemy to man. To keep it conquered has been a problem, and it has grown in importance with time. Each step forward in the march of civilization creates new hazards, new damage. The tragic part is that it has not been accompanied by an equivalent change in our mental attitude toward the risk.

Fire can be controlled.
At little expense, either in money or time, we can make our homes and places of business safe. To do that is a double duty, owed both to ourselves and to the community. Every fire affects every citizen—and every time a fire is prevented it benefits all.

COST.

The cost of "sin" in this country variously estimated at from $13,000,000,000
to $40,000,000,000 a year.
The statisticians do not differ
as to the cost of the individual "sins," but have divergent views as to which habits should be classed as "sins."

One statistician includes in his list only drink, immorality and the theatre. Another includes gum-chewing, cosmetics, joy-riding, tobacco, drinking, the theatre, popular fiction, light magazines, politicians, touring and moving pictures.
Others even more puritanical
than this second sin-economist may compile a list including everything which affords some degree of happiness or comfort to another.

Without differentiating
between the moralist's "sin"
and man's ordinary bad habits and luxuries, a few such annual items of expense include: $73,000,000
for cosmetics, $300,000,000
for massages, $500,000,000
for foreign travel, $500,- 000,000 for movies, billions for tobacco and its accessories, millions for contraband liquor, and corresponding amounts for the legitimate stage and cheap
literature.

Undoubtedly the money spent every year in the United States for non-essentials exceeds that expended for the bare necessities of life.
This disparity may account for the fact that life is sweeter in the United States
than in any other civilized place on this planet and that the stream of human migration is America bound.
The average person finds it harder to work for a living than for that surplus income which permits him to indulge his petty and major
"vices."

There is comfort for all
and those parts of America
scorned by Mencken don't know there is a Mencken.

All the world needs is an agreement not to have any more wars until the old ones are paid for.

PITY THE PEDESTRIAN

NOW WE'RE TO EAT IT.

State, county and municipal officials have shown less favored lands for tremendous enthusiasm for white bread or look upon good-road programs, but except in rare instances all of kings and millionaires, mill-itants have directed toward ers and bakers in the United States talk of teaching the American people to eat white bread again. It is distinctly settled communities, the covered that the people numerous towns and villages have turned away from the built up here and there "staff of life."

Along state highways, pedestrians are forced to use askance at a bread and potential lanes or take to a diet because it has the gutter or fields.

The natural result is a condition alike hazardous to motorists and travelers afoot. Motor cars again and again are forced into collision in swerving out of the way of walkers and too often because of confusion
of drivers or pedestrians

run down the latter with serious or fatal consequences. Even when casualties are averted the strain upon nerves is disastrous to health and comfort.

This isn't a matter to be merely deprecated and dismissed from mind. Something has to be done about it, and a new law isn't enough. Any highway system that fails to take into account the needs of the pedestrian is a reproach to the community. It is unsatisfactory from the standpoint of both safety and efficiency. And there is no better time than now to give the problem serious decisive consideration.

Pedestrian lanes cannot be provided in sparsely settled regions where the foot traveler is a rarity, but highways within walking distances of large centers of population and through suburban and rural settlements should be built with the pedestrian as well as the motorist in mind.

The Los Angeles milk-
men who can hold seven quart bottles in one hand is a good man not to elect to public office.

Omar divorced old bar-ren reason, which shows
there was a time when reason had something to do with divorce.

One might as well be honest about it. The best thing we saw during vacation was the front door at home.

The man who is lost with out his coffee doesn't seem very convincing while scoring a man who misses his beer.

Men and nations ask
nothing more than justice,
except the privilege of defending it.

The final proof of a powerful nature is never to wish you were driving a 10-ton truck.

Faith, hope and charity,
and if we had more of a genius only for making ourselves obnoxious, but the last.

MILLER ORDERED TO
FILE TWO REPORTS
FOR YEAR OF 1931LEVEE IMPROVEMENT DIS-TRICT TAX LEVIES FOR NEW YEAR ANNOUNCED

Cleo G. Miller, criminal district attorney of Navarro county, was directed in an order passed by the Navarro county commissioners court to file a report for the time in 1931 he was county attorney and another report for the time he was criminal district attorney of Navarro county, including fees and expenses. Monday afternoon and L. C. Morgan, county clerk, was directed to send him a certified copy of the order. Miller had previously filed a single report concerning the fees for the time
as county attorney and also as criminal district attorney. The first report was not approved by J. M.
Tillotson, county auditor, who considered two separate reports should be filed.

Miller claims his report as previously made was the same as in some other counties which have been approved by the county authorities. He served 41-2 months as county attorney and 1-1 months as criminal district attorney.

The commissioners also directed the keeping of prisoners from Federal court in the county jail to serve out jail sentences. The court members said they had not passed any orders allowing the keeping of the prisoners here and knew nothing about it, but intimated a conference would be held between the commissioners and Sheriff Rufus Pevewell within the next day or two relatives to details of the agreement with the Federal government and a discussion of the provision of the keeping of Federal prisoners in the local jail.

PREPARING CLAIMS FOR STATE HIGHWAY BOND ASSUMPTION

RECORDS MUST BE IN AUSTIN BY MONDAY; WORK HERE BEING RUSHED

County officials are working at top speed this week getting up the records and necessary data on the various road districts in Navarro county with outstanding bonds in order that the State Highway department can assume the outstanding bonds used in State Highway construction and improvements. The record, etc. must be in Austin not later than Monday and the local records will be sent during the week-end, probably Saturday night.

The act of the legislature providing for the assumption of the outstanding bonds as a relief measure to counties and road districts went into effect, Sept. 17, and claims must be not later than 30 days after the law is effective, Clay Nash, county judge, stated Thursday morning. A. E. Mitchell, county engineer, who is in charge of the work, said the records would be sent Saturday night.

Mr. Mitchell declined to estimate the total amount to be brought in, saying it had not been definitely determined.

Judge Nash said the local officials were seeking to procure $40,000 for outstanding bonds in the old Rice district used on the X-All highway a number of years ago in addition to the assumption of bonds in Rice district 12 used on Highway 75 in recent years. Refunds are also being sought in the old Richland district, Purley, Berry, Dawson, Blooming Grove, Frost and Kerens. More than $1,000,000 is expected to be procured in Consolidated road district No. 1.

Attachments of the engineer's county judge's and auditor's offices are rushing the work in getting up the proof, etc., as to the money spent on the various highways.

Insull

(Continued from Page 1) but Swanson said Edward Bayly, assistant attorney general for the province of Ontario, had signified that the hearing would be continued until arrival of the warrant.

Meanwhile, James E. Stewart, special investigator for the United States senate committee on banking and currency, and his aide, sprang into the apex of the Insull utility pyramid.

"The committee," Stewart said, "has jurisdiction to investigate the selling, lending, or buying of securities in the various stock exchanges. Anthony is also granted to investigate the value of such securities, the method of sale, and the effect of these transactions upon the national banking and federal reserve systems."

He said the committee's final report would be used primarily for a basis of corrective legislation. Stewart added, however, that the committee also had authority to inquire into affairs of federal office holders whose names appeared on the so-called "preferred" lists of Insull investors—persons permitted to underwrite issues before the general public had buying rights.

Claim Insull Held Without Authority

ATHENS, Oct. 13.—(P)—The Greek government today ordered an inquiry to establish the responsibility for the detention of Sam Insull, former Chicago utility magnate, early this week. Insull was held without authority.

The director of the Athens police will be called upon for an explanation, it was announced.

In circles which have followed with interest the case of the former utilities head since his arrival here from Italy, a belief was expressed today that the government eventually would ask Insull to shorten his stay in the country.

Official of the American legation nor the American consul general had his passport, which was taken from him by police when he was detained and presumably was returned to him when he was released.

On good authority, it was learned he has no intention of returning to the United States voluntarily.

Three white boys from Houston were arrested Wednesday by Deputy Sheriff Westbrook and were charged with drunkenness and one was charged with driving a car while intoxicated. Officers said the trio may be charged with robbery in connection with the alleged robbery of a filling station in Streetman.

It was said three men purchased some merchandise at the filling station and refused to pay for it, brandishing a pistol as a further argument they did not intend to pay for their purchases.

Tax Assessor's Office.

Doc J. Martin, tax assessor, announced Thursday that the tax rolls of Navarro county property for this year would probably be completed by Nov. 1. The work was delayed considerably due to the consideration of bills waiting for legislation to be passed by the Legislature in special session relative to assumption of road bonds used in construction of highways.

MINER SHOT AND PICKETING AGAIN RESUMED THURSDAY

TAYLORVILLE, Ill., Oct. 13.—(P)—Miner pickets slipped up behind a guardsman of the 108th Cavalry at the Peabody mine No. 58 at Hewittville today, struck him on the head and disarmed him.

Quick action was taken by Captain Carl Meacham, after this incident which followed the shooting earlier at Ike McGuire, a miner. He ordered both the democratic and republican headquarters in Taylorville closed, explaining that their use as reception rooms was abused by the miners, who were congregating in them in large numbers.

At St. Vincent's Hospital, the soldier E. D. Hancock of Springfield, was suffering from a scalp wound.

TAYLORVILLE, Ill., Oct. 13.—(P)—Ike McGuire, a miner, was shot in the face and breast by pickets who called him from his home at Hewittville today.

Badly hurt by the blast of shotgun slugs, he fired into the crowd. The firing brought National Guardsmen, who used tear gas bombs to disperse the crowd.

The shooting of McGuire signified the return of the many pickets arrested yesterday and released on their promise to go home.

They returned to picket duty early this morning and the six National Guard companies—the largest number ever assembled to keep order here—were kept busy clearing the highways with tear gas and smoke bombs.

Thus far no one has been wounded by a militia bullet. Gas and smoke bombs have been used to keep the peace. Militiamen have fired but four shots since posted here several weeks ago.

Terrible Conditions Forecast by China

NANKING, Oct. 13.—(P)—A grim statement foreclosing terrible conditions expected to prevail among the Chinese military forces in Manchuria during the coming winter, was issued by the war office of the national government today.

The statement said 30,000 volunteer troops who are opposing the Japanese military forces in the three provinces "face death either from starvation, exposure, or at the hands of the Japanese troops during the bitter weather which already is beginning."

The Chinese forces, it said, "who refuse to accept Japanese domination of their native soil, have only cotton uniforms and many of these have been reduced to rags, while no winter clothing whatever is at hand."

They have been maintaining a precarious source of food supplies, the ministry said, through raids on Japanese supply trains and depots and on Chinese villages, but "as a result of the continued warfare, thousands of villages have been destroyed and crops have not been planted, while the agricultural Japanese are becoming increasingly difficult on account of the approach of sub-zero weather."

"It may become impossible to continue the great struggle," the statement concluded.

OUTLOOK FOR WINTER RANGE FOR LIVESTOCK BETTER THAN SEVERAL YEARS FOR TEXAS

AUSTIN, Oct. 13.—(P)—The outlook for winter live stock range feed is the best in several years, F. E. Finley, statistician of the federal state crop reporting service, stated in his October 1 report today.

Very favorable conditions have been reported in the state during September and, with the exception of local dry areas in the Panhandle, ranges are well above the average, he said. "While the outlook for winter range feed is the best in several years, dry warm weather is needed to allow the green grass to cure. Winter grains are making good growth and promise good winter grazing.

Feed crops are plentiful and a larger crop was produced than last year.

The condition of ranges at 91 per cent of normal is the highest condition reported during any of the past ten years of record on October 1 and compares with 71 per cent reported a year ago, 67 per cent two years ago, and 80.7 per cent the ten year average.

"Cattle improved two points in condition during September and are now well above the average condition on October 1, being at 81 per cent of normal compared with 80 per cent a month ago, 80 per cent a year ago, 75 per cent two years ago and 84.1 per cent the ten year average.

Screw worms have been plentiful all year and have caused considerable loss among late calves. Spring calves have made good growth this year and are heavier than usual. Some heavy steers from south Texas are expected to move to market during October and prospects are fairly liberal run of cattle and calves during October and November.

The condition of sheep and goat ranges at 96 per cent of normal compares with 72 per cent a year ago, 65 per cent two years ago and 83 per cent, the nine year average (1923-1931). Frequent and heavy rains have held up range conditions, but allowed about the usual improvement of three points during the month. Prospects are very favorable for sheep to go into the winter in good condition."

FEW TAXPAYERS ARE TAKING ADVANTAGE OF DELINQUENT LAW

Few Navarro county tax payers are taking advantage of the payment of delinquent taxes without interest and penalty as provided for in a bill passed by the recent special session of the Texas legislature, Clay Nash, county judge, stated Thursday morning.

Judge Nash pointed out that the time-limit for the payment of delinquent taxes without the interest and penalties would expire Jan. 1, 1933.

"The condition of ranges at 91 per cent of normal is the highest condition reported during any of the past ten years of record on October 1 and compares with 71 per cent reported a year ago, 67 per cent two years ago, and 80.7 per cent the ten year average.

BURLINGTON-R. I. LINES APPLY FOR LOW COTTON RATES

DALLAS, Oct. 13.—(P)—L. M. Hogsett, general freight agent for the Fort Worth and Denver lines, today formally presented the application of the Burlington-Rock Island and affiliated lines for a reduction of rates on large lots of uncompressed cotton moving to Texas ports to the Interstate commerce commission and the state railroad commission.

The applicants state that lower rates on flat cotton to Texas ports were needed to meet truck competition, was submitted to Examiner G. H. Mattingly for the C. C. and L. Smith and Ernest O. Thompson of the railroad commission. It stated that much of the truck business was in handling uncompressed cotton.

Cross-examination by attorneys for interior compress organizations, however, again emphasized the fight between interior and port compresses. A delegation representing the Farmers' educational and co-operative union appeared at the hearing yesterday to ask for the reduced rates which they claimed would be beneficial to cotton farmers by practically eliminating the middle man.

The hearing continued to attract cotton interests from the interior of Texas and Oklahoma as well as representatives of industrial and commercial groups.

Hogsett quoted figures and introduced exhibits to show the need for lower rates on uncompressed cotton in order that the railroads might cope with the truck competition. He was on the stand all of the morning session and was cross-examined by A. L. Reed, representing the Dallas Cotton Exchange, J. K. Moore, representing the American Cotton So-Operative Association by the organization of interior compresses and warhouses.

Actual presentation of the rail lines' case had been delayed a day by the testimony of early witnesses yesterday. They were called first by Mattingly when they said they would be unable to remain in the city for the complete hearing, which was expected to last about a week.

When the interstate phase of the hearing is completed before the I. C. C. examiner, the intrastate agency must then be threshed out separately before the railroad commission.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—(P)—The London News Chronicle, Liberal newspaper, commenting on the new tariff schedule which went into effect in Canada today, said the effect on the British economy, especially in the case of Canada, would result chiefly in the erection of new barriers against foreign trade.

As far as world trade is concerned, it said, the position of Great Britain not only is not improved as a result of the Ottawa agreements, but actually is made worse.

The Times, however, said the concessions granted British industry are more substantial and

'Younger Generation' Problem Holds Center of S. S. Study

Light From Life and From Scripture Upon One of Acute Questions of Day—Is The Past All Wrong? Parents' Right to Convictions and Standards—The "Forgotten Man" Is Dad

BY WILLIAM T. ELLIS.

Crazy notions abound nowadays, and one of the craziest is the idea that "the younger generation" has no obligation to the past or to its transmitted ideas and usages; but may "live its own life" regardless. Suppose, for a moment, that youth, by some extraordinary freak of nature, were to really cut loose from all life that has gone before—that laws, customs, traditions, and the accumulated knowledge and abilities which make up our civilization were to be completely wiped out, and "the younger generation" were thrown on its own, to make an absolutely fresh start. In such a case, does any one imagine that we should have a better world? No; the oft-laughed "cave man" would have his day again, and life would revert to jungle conditions.

"The Forgotten Man" Is Dad! But there is another side to the case. One of rather amusing aspects of modern youth's clamorous demands for freedom and "self-expression" is the naive assumption that parents have no corresponding rights to personality. Is not the truth that fathers and mothers, in their greater humanity, also have convictions and sense of duty and destiny? Must the elders give way their most sacred obligations at the airy demand of their children?

In no conferences or discussions of the youth problem have I ever heard the point brought out that serious-minded parents feel themselves duty-bound, by Scripture's commandment and by their own good sense, to exercise responsibility for their children. The "young generation" thus is clashing, not with the whims and notions of old foggies far behind the times, but with parents who know that, in loyalty to God and to their own conception of the office they must insist upon certain standards for their families. At the day of final accounting, parents must answer for the training of their children.

There really Are Standards. On October 12, in a speech before Jehovah, said of Abraham (Genesis 18:19): "For I know him, that he will command his children and his household after him, and they shall keep the word of the Lord, to do justice and judgment; that the Lord may bring upon Abraham that which he hath spoken of him." Even more explicit is that com-assumption that it has a right to its own life.

Myriads of characters have been sacrificed under the old conception, the whining and selfishness of the tyrants in their borders. Mrs. E. Wilkins put into a nutshell the authentic case of a New England man who, as a babe and a boy, had been kept in chair or bed by a mother who did not want her housekeeping interfered with; so that child grew to manhood without any use of his legs. That was a home in which youth had no rights. Sometimes I have seen a little boy tethered to a rope in the yard of his home, like a dog, so that the mother could be undisturbed in her household tasks. Regression and restraint have too often been the lot of childhood in the home.

"The Forgotten Man" Is Dad!

Whether we like it or not, we are "heirs of all the ages," and inextricably tied to the past. There is a sense in which each generation is made new; and that is the hope of progress. But in the younger generation, the promise of life starts, not as scratch, but where its predecessor arrived. Sensible young people, who really do their own thinking, see clearly that they are debtors to the past. They must carry on the best that their forebears have learned. Today stands on the shoulders of yesterday. Instead of a cave or a tree-top, youth's background is a modern home.

What About Today's Youth? In an unprecedented degree, youth is today a problem group. Especially is this so of educated youth, and of the children of wealthy families. Broadly speaking, youth is in revolt against authority. Many of its principles are noble; many are trivial, selfish, stupid. It wants individual liberty, without corresponding responsibility. Tragically, it pursues sensibilization, and a "good time," without taking thought of what constitutes real and permanent pleasure values. It craves a "thrill" instead of a duty.

Many voices are upraised in discussion of this youth situation. Considerable attention has been attracted by the deliberate pronouncement of the headmaster of England's greatest public schools that the boys of today have sadly deteriorated in their standards and practices; they are "soft," selfish, vain, unsportsmanlike and unwilling to "play the game" as their forebears did. Other old folks sound the same note—though it is to be remembered that older uppersons usually lament the decline of the next generation.

On the other hand and quite as inaccurately, many public leaders of youth find them a wonder-generation, well nigh impeccable, and competitive to most of them in new ideals. These flatterers are as willing to tell the ascertainable facts as are the Jeremiah. Nobody who really knows contemporary youth, as individuals, can deny the existence of tendencies and characteristics which may be viewed only with alarm.

Youth Has Rights. Suppose we try to get hold of a few indisputable considerations in the case, especially in the light of Scripture. The first of these is that youth has rights. Jesus was the emancipator of childhood; even His own disciples were all for "suspending" the "children" as a punishment. But the Master rebuked them; honored the little ones; promised them a high place in His kingdom; and exalted "the child" as the norm of the good life.

It was the old idea that a child was but an immature man or woman, to be considered only as a necessary stage on the road to maturity. But Jesus made clear that the child life is as really life, and as important in itself, as manhood or womanhood. Modern youth has Divine authority for its mandment which has been so powerful in shaping the life of the Jews (Deut. 6:8-9): "And these words which I command thee this day shall be in thine heart; and thou shall teach them diligently unto thy children, and shalt talk of them when thou sittest in thine house, and when thou walkest by the way, and when thou risest up, and thou shalt bind them for a sign upon thine hand, and they shall be as frontlets between thine eyes. And thou shalt write them upon the posts of thy house, and on thy gates."

The Greatest School of All

The old school idea will never be eliminated. Home remains the most influential school of all. What children learn from father and mother, chiefly by example, outweighs all that school teachers may impart. Therefore the matter of making the home the most formative factor in the development of the oncoming generation should be the first concern of parents. It is high time that there be an end of the colossal stupidity of fathers being too busy with their business to bother about the children; and of mothers being too engrossed in their social life to give time to their own offspring. Every day's paper carries tragic tales to point that truth.

Homes in which provision is made for fun, and for the entertainment of the children's friends; for worthwhile literature; or free and intimate discussions at table—"Our family is a democracy." Joseph Daniels once said to me, when his boys were young. The father who is on the go to his family is a failure at the business of life, however large his bank account.

No home is really symmetrical, and educationally effective, unless religion is a recognized force in its daily life.

Texas Teachers Taken to Task For Tax Stand

HOUSTON, Oct. 11.—(P)—Frank Putnam of Houston, who described himself as originator of the homestead tax exemption amendment movement, issued a statement today criticizing the recent action of the executive committee of the Texas State Teachers' Association in opposing the amendment.

Texas teachers have no right to assume that the fathers and mothers of Texas are less concerned than themselves for the welfare of Texas children," Putnam said.

"Exemption of $3,000 of the assessed value of homesteads from ad valorem taxes will make forty to ninety per cent of all Texas farm and town homes forever safe from taxation and will lighten the tax burden on the other ten to 20 per cent.

CORSICANA WILL ASK $25,000 FROM R. F. C. FOR RELIEF

ESTIMATED APPROXIMATELY 800 HEADS FAMILIES UNEMPLOYED HERE

Corsicana will ask for $25,000 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation funds from Oct. 15 to Jan. 1, it was decided at a meeting of the charity committee of the Corsicana Chamber of Commerce Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock and the necessary figures and data are to be forwarded to Gov. R. S. Sterling immediately.

It was estimated that approximately 800 heads of families are unemployed in Corsicana at the present time.

There is available $300,000,000 for this work in the United States, it was stated, with no state being allowed more than 15 per cent of the total amount. This money received from the Reconstruction Corporation by the various states is to be held out of the highway appropriations from the federal government after 1935, it was said.

Among those present were W. P. McCannon, W. O. Harwell, G. C. Roberts, Mayor J. Wesley Dreden, A. F. Mitchell, C. L. Lester, J. M. Dyer, Sr., and Lowry Martin.

Baby Died Tuesday; Burial on Wednesday

Joe Parra, 10-months-old son of Dr. and Mrs. Tony Parra, died Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, and the funeral was held Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Catholic cemetery where interment was made. The services were conducted by Rt. Rev. Monseignor V. Graffeo of the Church of the Immaculate Conception.

The funeral was directed by the Sutherland-McCommon Funeral Home.

Lowed to Texas will be held out of Texas' portion of federal highway appropriations after 1935.

The $25,000 asked is thought to be in line with other requests that have been made. Waco is seeking $60,000 and Austin wants $75,000.

No definite organization was perfected, pending the procuring of the appropriation, but it was the consensus of those present that it will be in the form of work—cleaning parks, cemeteries, digging ditches, etc., and not in the nature of a dole. It also was brought out in the discussion that this amount asked for Corsicana alone, and not for Navarro county.

If the appropriation is secured, rules, organization, etc., will be promulgated later.

Among those present were W. P. McCannon, W. O. Harwell, G. C. Roberts, Mayor J. Wesley Dreden, A. F. Mitchell, C. L. Lester, J. M. Dyer, Sr., and Lowry Martin.
